Dear Count,

I am much indebted to you for the instruction and information afforded me by reading Dr. Cortzen, Gesch. der Soc. Frage.
It appears to me a superior treatise on that subject, but too diffuse and somewhat spun out.

I hope your dear respected Mother is better than she was last week when I had the pleasure of seeing you, please give her my respects and good wishes. It was a great disappointment for me on the 31 ult. not to see her kind and genial face.

I send you a book on printing which may interest you; German Home Life is still in the hands of one of my friends.

Yours very obedt.

List w sprawie Książki Dra J. J. Baumanna: Handbuch der Moral (Leipzig 1879) do Oswalda

Dear Count,

Many thanks for the loan of 'Baumann'. His work is very interesting and cannot be read hurriedly. I have noticed in reading your notes that you agree with me in considering Baumann visionary in some of his opinions. He appears to be too much of what I may playfully call a system-baker. His notion that a man is bound to marry in order that some woman in the community may not be deprived of her chance is particularly amusing. His assertion that the two sexes are about equal in number may be true in a general sense, but it is not true with respect to Great Britain and Ireland where there ^{are} about a million more females than males. That being the case, it would be quite Quixotic for a man to think of equalizing the chances

chances of the fair sex by going in for a wife. As a rule let every one attend to the direct interests of himself, his family and friends; then the outcome of his actions will be the outcome the most favourable for the community at large.

Our fragment of humanity to me dear comprises your revered Mother, yourself and Miss Kolb, I trust you are all well. Please give my respects to the ladies and believe

Yours very truly
